Squadron Aircrew and Operations Information - Web-Site Reports

Introduction

Over the last few years some effort has been put into getting Squadron information available to a wider audience.

Summarising what has been, and is still being, done:

- The 550 Squadron Operations Record Book (ORB) is being digitised.
- The RAF North Killingholme Station ORB is also available and is being used to complement the Squadron ORB information.
- Photos, log books, personal recollections, etc, from family and friends of aircrew has been combined with the ORBs and is yielding a rich source of information about the Squadron.
- All available online from the Association web-site, as "reports" (on aircrew, operations or aircraft).
- This document outlines how to access that information easily, especially showing how it can be used to produce "tailored" results.

Two important points to note.

- 1. The user interface is fairly basic because priority is being given to getting the data entered. Nonetheless the web-page can still be used to produce "reports" on specific airmen, operations or aircraft. A future aspiration, once the bulk of the data is entered, is to make the user interface easier to use.
- 2. The process of entering all the information from the Squadron ORB is not yet complete. It is estimated that details of the majority of the air crew are now entered (at the time of writing ca. 1891 personnel). But the completion of operations details (including the linking of individual aircrew to specific aircraft on specific operations) is probably at the 70-75% mark. Therefore the reports displayed will still show gaps; but the task is on-going and hopefully will be completed in the not too distant future.

The Basics

Reports: The reports are run at the time the user clicks the link and they are reporting on data in a database (hidden "under the covers" so to speak); this means that the user always see the latest information. If the user were to come back the next day and select the same link again and information has been added in the interim then the report will automatically see that latest information. The web-page reports the last time the database was updated so it is always possible to know how fresh the data is.

[URI: Uniform Resource Identifier. Fancy name: a means to identify a webresource, in this case a specific web-page.]

The section inside the blue dashed line (ending in ".php"): should not be altered – this is the name of the report to be run.

The section inside the red dashed line (i.e. after the '?'): can be altered by simply typing over to help you narrow down a database search. Simply type in text to change the name of the target, or aircraft, to whatever you wish to find out information about.

Some reports, as in the above example, can produce results on a combined search; reports with more than one possible search parameter will have an '&' in the line as a "separator".

The '?' and the '&' are important; do not type over them.

The user cannot (i.e. should not) change the words the search keywords target, or aircraft, but the actual target or aircraft can be changed Berlin to Hamburg (etc.) and EE139 to LM273 (etc.). Stick to these simple rules and the report will generate results pertinent to the query.

The added benefit of more targeted searches: a more restricted search returns data to the screen more quickly.

If you make a mess of it – no damage done! Just go back to the main reports page and try again.

On the following pages guidance for each report with details on what can be entered in the available places.

There are two options to produce slight varations of the report, based on the same dataset:

- List, in alphabetic order by country, of all Cemeteries, or other sites, (with summary site details) where 550 Squadron Servicemen are buried or commemorated (plus links to details of each serviceman remembered there). To execute this report add the following to the end of the URI shown in the above example.
 - ?sort=bycountry
- List of all Cemeteries, or other sites, (with summary site details) where 550 Squadron Servicemen are buried or commemorated (plus links to details of each serviceman remembered there) for a single country. To execute this report add the following to the end of the URI shown in the above example.
 - ?country=NL

In both cases the internationally recognised country code, rather than the country name, is used as the input parameter to the URI. Thus use FR or NL, rather than France or The Netherlands. The list of valid country codes is:

• BE, DE, DK, FR, IRL, NL or UK.

At the end of the report(s), i.e. the bottom of the generated web-page, three tables of numeric data are included.

- 1. Summary Totals
- 2. Number of Cemeteries per Country (with a total that should tie up with number of Cemeteries with 550 dead (as recorded in the Summary Totals table above).

12 🛛

3. Totals of Men in all Cemeteries per Country (with a total that should tie up wth the number of 550 Aircrew recorded at the above Cemeteries (as recorded in the Summary Totals table above).

Association Newsletter Report

Main (full report) - contains the list of all of the Association Newsletters since formation of the Association.

NB: that online only this summarized version of the newsletters is available, as the actual documents contain private information such as contact names and addresses of members which is not made publically available.
